Dr. Geneva M. Gano

Texas State University
College of Liberal Arts
English
english@txstate.edu

Institutions of Higher Education Attended

PHD, Univ of California-Los Angeles.

MA, Univ of California-Los Angeles.

BA, Stanford University.

Previous Teaching Positions

Associate Professor of English, Texas State University. (September 2019 - Present).

Assistant Professor, Texas State University. (September 2015 - September 2019).

Assistant Professor of Literature, Antioch College, Yellow Springs, OH. (July 2011 - July 2015).

Visiting Assistant Professor, Indiana University. (August 2009 - May 2011).

Lecturer, UCLA. (September 2008 - June 2009).

Postdoctoral Fellow, Stanford University. (September 2007 - June 2008).

Significant Professional Works

Book Chapters

Gano, G. M. (2025). "'As Dangerous as High Explosives,' or, the Sexual Lives of Hired Girls: Sex Radicalism in My Ántonia". Cather Studies 14. Lincoln, Nebraska: University of Nebraska.

Gano, G. M. (2024). Her Fabulous Career: Sandra Cisneros's Life Work. ¡Ay Tú! Critical Essays on the Life and Work of Sandra Cisneros (pp. 1-11). University of Texas Press.

Gano, G. M. (2022). “Modernist Activities and Native Acts in and around Northern New Mexico”. The Routledge Handbook to North American Indigenous Modernisms (pp. 29-43). Routledge.

Books

(2024). G. M. Gano & S. Saldívar-Hull (Eds.), "¡Ay, Tú! Critical Essays on the Life-Work of Sandra Cisneros". Austin, Texas: University of Texas Press.