Curriculum Vita, Texas State University

1. Academic Background

   a. Name: Peter A. Petroff

   b. Title: Clinical Professor

   c. Educational Background:
      i. MD 1968 University of Illinois Medical School Medicine
      ii. BS. 1964 DePaul University Biology
      iii. 1969 St Mary's Hospital, San Francisco, CA Internship
      iv. 1972 Mayo Clinic, Rochester, MN Residency
      v. 1975 Mayo Clinic, Rochester, MN Pulmonary

   d. University Experience:
      i. Associate Professor 1968-2005
      ii. Clinical Professor 2005-present
      iii. Medical Director, Polysomnography 2006-2018
      iv. Medical Director, Respiratory Care, Bachelor of Science Program 2003-2018

   e. Relevant Professional Experience:
      i. Chief, Burn Unit, Fort Sam Houston, TX 1973-1976
      ii. Physician, Diagnostic Clinic 1976-1996
      iii. Physician, Independent Medical Associates 1996-2014
      iv. American Board of Internal Medicine, Internal Medicine 1973
      v. American Board of Internal Medicine, Pulmonary Disease 1976

vi. Texas Physician License 1976-present

2. Teaching
    a. Course Taught Currently:
        i. RC 4322 Respiratory Care Seminar Class
        ii. RC 3315 Cardiopulmonary, anatomy and physiology

3. Scholarly and Creative
    a. Works In Print
        i. Seminars in Respiratory Disease, 2023 edition (not referred), Amazon ii. Lecture Notes: Anatomy and Physiology for the Respiratory Therapist, 2022 edition (not referred), Amazon.
        iii. Lisztomania, with foreword by Dr. Jason Kwak, 2016 Amazon
        iv. Why Galileo, 2016, Amazon
        v. “Pulmonary Disease in the Burn Patient”, in B. Arez, Burns, “A Team Approach”, Sanders, Philadelphia, PA, 1979

    b. Articles
        i. Petroff, P., Handler, E., Clayton, W., Pruitt, B., (1976), Pulmonary Function Studies after Smoke Inhalation, The American Journal of Surgery, 132(3), 346-351
        ii. Petroff, P., Major, M., Handler, E., Mason, A., (1975). Ventilatory Patterns Following Burn Injury and the Effect of Sulfamylon, The Journal of Trauma, 15(8), 650-656
    c. Invited Talks, Lectures, Presentations
        i. Multiple to St. Philips College, Respiratory Care Department 2000-2005

4. Service
    a. University:
        i. Graduate College Faculty Appt.
    b. Departmental
        i. Medical Director, Polysomnography 2006-2018
        ii. Medical Director, Respiratory Care, Bachelor of Science Program 2003-2018

iii. Medical Advisory Committee 1976- present

c. Service Honors
i. Fellow, American College of Physicians
ii. Bexar County Medical Society