RESEARCH POSITIONS

Research Lab

2023- — Director, Digital Media & Everyday Life Lab
Texas State University
The Digital Media and Everyday Life Lab is a research lab that explores the social formations that emerge with the assemblage of publics and platforms. In particular, the lab investigates how people use digital media platforms (e.g., social media, gaming, content streaming) through hardware platforms (e.g., mobile devices, gaming consoles, smart speaker assistants, virtual reality) in everyday life. The lab explores media appropriation, consumption, influence, and literacy, often working collaboratively with faculty and graduate students in the School of Journalism and Mass Communication, across Texas State University, and with other institutions/labs.

International Research Projects

2024- — Researcher, Differential appropriations of Telegram: Comparing Political Communication on Telegram Around the Globe
Led by Dr. Annett Heft (Free University of Berlin), Dr. Pablo Jost (Johannes Gutenberg University of Mainz), Dr. Emese Domahidi (Technische Universität Ilmena), with the Digitalisation and Transnational Public Sphere at the Weizenbaum Institute for the Networked Society (Berlin) in collaboration with 45 other colleagues from around the globe.

Research Assistantships

2021-2022	Research Assistant on The Disinformation Project Simon Fraser University Disinformation and right-wing extremism on social media platforms and the dark web with Dr. Ahmed Al-Rawi
2021	Research Assistant, Simon Fraser University [Book project] Media Literacies: A Critical Introduction (2nd Edition) with Dr. Stuart Poyntz (SFU) and Dr. Michael Hoechsmann (Lakehead University)
